

CATHOLICS: Has Your Parish or Diocese Wimped Out?

You're not alone! But help is on the way. We at the NEW OXFORD REVIEW don't pussyfoot around. You won't hear from us about how all religions are the same and it doesn't matter whom or what you have faith in or how you behave, so long as you're "tolerant" and "nice." That's the politically correct Gospel, not the Gospel of Jesus Christ, and you know it!

You've heard, time after time, that Jesus is the Lamb of God. "Sweet Jesus, meek and mild." The Lamb metaphor has its place, but in this day and age it very much needs to be augmented by the biblical metaphor of Christ the Lion. After all, Jesus was a burly carpenter, not a fey hairdresser, which He is in danger of being thought of these days.

At the Second Coming, Christ will first appear as a powerful lion. He will manifest His glory and judge the world.

Revelation 5:5 says of Christ: "Lo, the Lion of the tribe of Judah, the Root of David, has conquered...." Alas, we live in a time — and will for the foreseeable future — when loyal Catholics grieve for their Church, even for their own diocese or parish or both. The sickening sex scandals among priests have been devastating, and they will continue as long as homosexuality

(not just "pedophilia") is not rooted out of the priesthood. But the degenerates in the seminaries and the priesthood will not have the last word. Christ will triumph — yea, not least in His Church.

Behold the power of authentic Catholicism by subscribing to the NEW OXFORD REVIEW. A monthly magazine founded in 1977, we're on the cutting edge of the resurgence of Catholic orthodoxy. Newsweek says we're "cheeky" and Library Journal says we're "brilliant." We cover all the issues of concern to today's loyal Catholic, and we do so with wit, pep, and pizzaz. We're "Catholicism's intellectual prizefighter," according to Karl Keating.

If you want to recapture the excitement of when you first really believed, if you despair of all the moral laxity and dissent in the Church but seek a remedy for that despair, or if you're searching for a "face" of Catholicism that's spiritually vibrant, socially concerned, solidly prolife, and doctrinally sound, subscribe! We'll rejuvenate your Catholic life.

When you subscribe, you'll no longer be ashamed to be a Catholic. You'll roar like a lion, knowing that there are Catholics who will never surrender to the heretics and perverts and cover-up artists in our midst. Sursum corda!
